

BSCS Students:

Philosophy 110 is changing to Philosophy 134

Beginning with the Spring, 2007 semester, the Philosophy Department will be offering a new course, Philosophy 134 (Computers, Ethics and Society) and the BSCS program requirements will be changing to this new course. If you have not already taken Philosophy 110, please register for this new course – it will satisfy all of the requirements of Philosophy 110 (including Area V of the SJSU Studies requirements) and will be more about computer ethics than Philosophy 110.

If you have already taken Philosophy 110, you do not have to take Philosophy 134 – Philosophy 110 will still satisfy the graduation requirement for the BSCS. Please see the Department Office or your major advisor if you have any questions.